

Workers' Compensation Changes By State

Effective Dates of New Split Point Method

The following states use NCCI or very similar rating methodology and therefore may approve the split point change; if noted, the following states have announced a firm date to enact changes (as of February 6, 2012):

- Alabama—March 1, 2013
- Alaska—January 1, 2013
- Arizona—January 1, 2013
- Arkansas—July 1, 2013
- Colorado
- Connecticut
- District of Columbia—November 1, 2013
- Florida
- Georgia—March 1, 2013
- Hawaii—January 1, 2013
- Idaho—January 1, 2013
- Illinois
- Indiana—January 1, 2013
- Iowa—January 1, 2013
- Kansas—January 1, 2013
- Kentucky—October 1, 2013
- Louisiana—May 1, 2013
- Maine—January 1, 2013
- Maryland—January 1, 2013
- Massachusetts (1)
- Michigan (2)
- Minnesota (2)
- Mississippi—March 1, 2013
- Missouri
- Montana—July 1, 2013
- Nebraska—February 1, 2013
- Nevada—March 1, 2013
- New Hampshire—January 1, 2013
- New Mexico—January 1, 2013
- New York (2) —October 1, 2013 (3)
- North Carolina (1)—April 1, 2013
- Oklahoma—January 1, 2013
- Oregon—January 1, 2013
- Rhode Island—June 1, 2013
- South Carolina—July 1, 2013
- South Dakota—July 1, 2013
- Tennessee—March 1, 2013
- Texas (2)
- Utah—December 1, 2013
- Vermont—April 1, 2013
- Virginia—April 1, 2013
- West Virginia—November 1, 2013
- Wisconsin (2)

Footnotes:

(1) State has independent bureau but interstate-rates under NCCI rules

(2) State has independent bureau

(3) NY has indicated the 2013 split point will be 10,000; subsequent split point changes are anticipated but to be determined